Old Religions, New Ideas.
50 Men Worth 50,000.
Dollars Work After You.

OLD, strange religions develop usefulness in new, strange ways. The world feared that Turkey and Russia might unite, controlling the Dardanelles between them, to control peace or war in the Mediterranean. But the new Caliph, ruler of faithful Mohammedans, says the Koran forbids Communism. Therefore, Turkey must make a military alliance with Communist Russia.

Abdul Medjid, Caliph, says the Koran recognizes private property. Mohammed certainly recognized it, for his wife, the thrifty widow, had a great deal of it, and he valued it.

But Medjid may live to find that there are two or three ways of reading the Koran, as there are of reading other ancient documents.

THE BRITISH are building a flying machine to carry fifty armed men. Those fifty men will equal 50,000 ordinary troops on the ground. Forty-eight of the fifty could spray the troops below with machine gun bullets and T.N.T., while one ran the machine, and the fiftieth dropped poison gas that would destroy an army. Does anybody in Washington realize that all warfare, on land or sea, will be war from the air, and that our battleships are toys to flatter the vanity of strutting admirals?

THE good that men do lives after them. The money that men earn works after them. Dr. Von Buck devoted his life to fighting consumption. Dying, he leaves his fortune, almost a million, to carry on the fight.

Years from now, when his name shall have been forgotten, those dollars will still be working.

CENTURIES hence, when the name of Rockefeller will be forgotten or remembered only by those that remember Jacques Coeur, French Rockefeller of the fifteenth century, the hundreds of millions that Rockefeller has made and given away will be working through the scientific knowledge that those dollars have directed and have developed.

Everything works for progress. Rockefeller did not know when he started to save that "first dollar" and noticed "that there might be something in oil" that his work would clean up plagues in China and on the banks of the Ganges, wipe out yellow fever by cleaning out its permanent abodes, and, most important of all, educate the people in public ownership by demonstrating the unnecessary costly futility of competition.

EVERY newspaper in the United States prints the fact that Clemenceau eats four hard-boiled eggs in the morning. Clemenceau, inheriting the digestion of French ancestors that have eaten carefully for hundreds of years, may do that. But DON'T YOU EAT FOUR EGGS at one time, and never eat your EGGS HARD-BOILED. Experiments of the great Russian Pavlov, who made experiments with dogs, prove that it takes about twenty-four hours to digest the white of a hard-boiled egg.

Imitate Clemenceau by eating soup in the morning, if you like. It's much better for you than coffee. But boil your eggs "soft."

WE talk about "grand old men" from Gladstone to Clemenceau, from Methuselah to Chauncey Depew. Consider Mrs. Felton, that grand old woman of Georgia, aged eighty-seven, first of her sex to take a seat in the U. S. Senate. She describes the incident, her presence in the Senate for one day, as "historical fact" and "romantic incident." All the grand old men put together could not have formulated a better description.

ONLY a few weeks ago ninety thousand men were idle in the Pennsylvania coal fields. Now mine owners are raking

HITCHCOCK PLANS ATTACK

Other Senators Emphatically Denounce Plea as Threat to Force Action by America

By Universal Service.

M. Clemenceau's utterances on America's attitude toward Europe since the war aroused the ire of a representative group of Senators here yesterday.

Senator Borah gave out a statement charging Clemenceau with responsibility for the conditions of misery in Europe which he so feelingly described in his New York speech. The Senator declared that Clemenceau himself blocked modification of the Versailles treaty and is to blame for France's militaristic attitude. The statement follows:

I am unable to accept M. Clemenceau's argument. He tells us that Europe is sweltering in misery. So she is. For her we have the deepest sympathy. But there is no man living more responsible for the present misery of Europe than Clemenceau himself. He more than any other man is responsible for the impossible and destructive terms of the Versailles treaty. He more than any one else stood in the way of the American delegation's efforts to modify the treaty and make it so that under it Europe could recover.

TREATY DESTRUCTIVE.

"The Versailles treaty is utterly destructive of the economic life of Europe. That is the judgment of every economist I know of who has studied the situation. It is also the judgment of leading Americans who have gone to Europe and returned after studying the situation. The present condition of Europe is due more to the terms of the Versailles treaty than any other one thing. Europe never can recover under its terms. Misery and suffering and discord and bloodshed will prevail so long as it obtains. Now, M. Clemenceau is directly or indirectly asking us to enforce this treaty or to help enforce it. To do so would add misery and suffering to Europe.

"M. Clemenceau said, after he had written the Versailles treaty practically, that the Versailles treaty was in effect a continuation of the war.

Auto Spooning Parties O. K. If One Hand Stays on Wheel, Police Rule

One-armed driving is "within the law" in the District. Inspector Albert J. Since the war Inspector Headley pointed out, many drivers' permits

French Papers Criticise Tiger For Speech

By C. F. BERTELLI

Universal Service.

PARIS, Nov. 22. THE evening newspapers severely criticise the speech of Georges Clemenceau in New York.

"Clemenceau is explaining to America what he could not explain to France," declares La Liberté.

"Frenchmen will watch the most interesting efforts of the Tiger to convert America," L'Intransigeant says.

"Clemenceau is only saying what every one has known, but it is unfortunate that he has to go to America to defend his actions in France," Journal des Debats says.

The whole press is very unsympathetic with the Tiger and seem to regard his utterances in a most cautious manner.

FAMILY OF SIX DIE BY POISON IN HOME

Father, Mother and Four Children Found Lifeless After Warning Note to Police.

By Universal Service.

LANCASTER, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Irvin E. Henderson, 40, his wife and four children, Ella, 7; Helen, 6; Mayme, 4, and Christiana, 18 months, were found dead at their home here today, victims of poison.

An unmailed letter written by Henderson, directed to the Ohio state board of health, expressing his opinion that they were being given poison by some enemy, was found on the floor.

When neighbors informed police officials that none of the Henderson family had been seen this morning at their home, Officer G. Jurgensmyer was sent to investigate. He found the lifeless forms of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and the four children.

Mrs. Henderson's body was seated in a rocking chair in the southwest corner of the room near a stove, with her head bent over an arm of the chair. Henderson's body was in another chair about eight feet away.

Wadsworth Has Secret Conference with Harding

President Harding and Senator Wadsworth of New York conferred at the White House yesterday afternoon. The Senator would not disclose the subject of discussion, but it is believed to have concerned the appointment of an up-State Republican to be collector for the port of New York.

Senator Wadsworth's name has been mentioned recently in connection with the possibility of his selection as Republican leader in the Senate to succeed Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

SUBSIDY BILL WINS IN VOTE OF HOUSE

Harding Measure Given Right of Way, With Only 19 Republicans Opposed.

FESS SUMS UP DEFENSE

Final Ballot on Measure Next Wednesday With Assurance of Passage.

By WINDER R. HARRIS.

Universal Service.

President Harding won a decisive victory yesterday in the opening skirmish of his fight for an American merchant marine.

The House, by a vote of 200 to 110, adopted a special rule giving the administration ship subsidy bill right-of-way, beginning today, and insuring a vote next Wednesday afternoon.

A majority of 90 registered in favor on this first test of strength.

OPPOSITION DROPS.

The great Republican vote against the measure predicted by the opponents had dwindled to a slim 16 when the roll-call came yesterday while 307 of the majority members threw their force behind it.

The Democrats voted almost solidly in the negative, but even then could muster but 94 votes. Three members of the minority favored and recorded themselves in favor of restoring the American flag on the seas.

The debate definitely put the opposition on the defensive.

"No man occupying the position of a statesman in this Congress," Representative Campbell challenged, "can justify himself before the country and before his constituency by saying, 'I am opposed to this measure.' He must say, 'I am opposed to this measure because I have something better to offer.'"

SUMS UP CASE.

Representative Fess, of Ohio, Republican Senator-elect, summed up the case for the subsidy. He said:

"We will all agree that the United States ought to become a merchant marine power. It is not a wise economic policy if it is not a wise economic policy to employ our competitors to carry our overseas trade, and that we ought to do it ourselves.

"The question is a choice either to go off the sea altogether, which is unthinkable, or some plan as outlined in this bill."

Winter at Last, Weather Man's Sad Prediction

PUT 'em on.

The cold weather of the past two days is not going to change, but according to the weather man, the people of Washington better had, provided, of course, that they have not changed already.

With the temperature well below freezing yesterday, and equally cold weather predicted for today, the first sample days of winter are believed to have reached Washington. Yesterday it was 29.6 at 5 o'clock in the morning. And the highest temperature during the day was only 44.3.

THEORY OF TRIDON HANGS ON DREAM

Psychoanalyst Dictates Death Statement and Lays Down to Die

By JOSEPH H. ROGERS.

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—"We are as we see ourselves in our dreams," is Andre Tridon's creed.

The famous French psychoanalyst and sex authority has had his dream of death.

Tridon is sleeping tonight after dictating a statement to his wife saying that "all hope of recovery has been given up."

Tridon has explained his theory that "if a man and woman could fall in love every day they would find the secret of eternal youth."

Tridon is still in love—has fallen in love daily with his wife as he has often explained.

Tridon has made it plain that a conscious fear is many times less dangerous than unconscious fear—there is a Jekyll and Hyde which lives in every man somewhere at the bottom of subconsciousness.

If Tridon is to die his dream theory will come true.

If he is to live, his symbols of what transpire when we sleep will fall like a house of cards.

Tridon's theory is in such contradiction with Solomon's, who said: "Stay with me, Flagons, comfort me with apples for I am sick of love," that the psychoanalyst's life or death may decide which love discourse is more correct.

If Tridon is to live, his love for his wife may be held responsible.

Clerks Demand Investigation of Offices Visited By Young Filipino

By Universal Service.

Escaping from a United States Public Health Service Hospital on an island in Boston harbor, where are isolated veterans of the world war suffering from infectious diseases, and where he had been quarantined as a leper, John Alivino, thirty-two years old, a Filipino, Tuesday morning walked into the central office of the Veterans' Bureau, in the Arlington building, causing a fright among men and women clerks.

Today, Alivino is isolated in a shack on the Eastern Branch of the Potomac. Arrangements are being made by Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, with officials of the Philippine government to have the Filipino leper colony at Cartersville, Louisiana, where he will spend the rest of his life.

Clerks in the office of the Veterans' Bureau, where Alivino applied for adjustment of his claims for compensation, demanded that the place be fumigated as a precaution against infection.

Alivino, at the outbreak of the world war, lived in the Philippine Islands. He enlisted, went to France, and is said to have distinguished himself in action. Army physicians discovered a peculiar skin disease which they pronounced leprosy. Alivino was sent back to the United States and committed to the hospital near Boston, where he was confined in isolation. A history of his case convinced medical men that he had contracted the disease while living in the Philippine Islands.

NEVER CONTENTED.

Alivino never was contented with being isolated, officials of the Veterans' Bureau say. He wanted more compensation and freedom.

He finally decided personally to make his pleas for compensation with the Veterans' Bureau. On Monday he escaped from the hospital. He reached New York, sat in a coach chair with several passengers on the way into the metropolis, and then took a train here.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning he presented himself to officials in the office of Capt. Albert E. Haan, in charge of the Fourth district.

Clerks looked up his record. They pulled out a folder which showed that "John Alivino was a leper—that he was supposed to be isolated on the Massachusetts coast. Dr. Heffner was summoned. He found the Filipino apparently suffering from leprosy. Dr. Fowler sent Dr. J. T. Sprague, his assistant, up to the Veterans' Bureau where Alivino was being detained in Dr. Heffner's office. Unafraid of being infected, Dr. Sprague placed the Filipino, against protests, in an automobile and rushed him to the quarantine hospital.

MACALESTER, Okla., Nov. 22.—Six persons were injured when the Katy Limited, northbound, was wrecked at Reams, near here today.

Six pullman cars were overturned. A broken rail was said to have caused the wreck.

The train, three hours late, was traveling fifty-five miles an hour, according to railroad reports.

Turk, Fleeced of Savings, Seeks Compensation from President

Hassan Naheen Hassany, pro-totype of the "terrible Turk," wild and disheveled in appearance, called at the White House yesterday with the intention of collecting $3,500 from President Harding. Hassan, who hails from Constantinople, Turkey, and Camden, N. J., said he had been film-flamed out of that amount by a citizen of Camden.

English Think Fascisti Same As U. S. Ku Klux

LONDON, Nov. 22.

Is there any relation between the Fascisti and the American Ku Klux Klan? This was the question that Londoners were asking Americans today following explanation of the Morning Post that the Ku Klux Klan "is just the same as the Fascisti under another name, and that it is attempting to put down all forms of lawlessness with a ruthless hand."

London newspapers are "playing up" dispatches from Washington telling of the activities of the Ku Klux Klan, especially in Louisiana.

Keller Says Merger Is Inadequate Remedy for Existing Conditions Here.

By Universal Service.

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 22.—At midnight tonight it is estimated that more than 100 are dead in the explosion at mine No. 5 of the Woodward Mining Company at Dolomite. Between 50 and 75 others are known to be injured, many of them seriously.

Many of the 400 men who were in the mine at the time of the explosion are still unaccounted for and the list of dead and injured may be considerably greater than the number now given.

Experts of the United States Bureau of Mines rescue squad estimated the death toll would reach 150.

One of the 125 maimed and burned men who have been brought out through an entry forced through mine No. 2 said he saw twenty bodies piled in the entrance to mine number 3, which is choked with debris.

The explosion was caused, it was quickly ascertained, when an electric tripper car, getting beyond control, ran away down an incline, crashed through several electric wires, short circuiting them and setting fire to dust.

The mine is operated by free labor and not by convicts, as is the rule in Alabama mines. No effort has been made to ascertain the number of whites and blacks among them.

FOUR HUNDRED IN MINE.

There were 400 miners in the mine when the charge exploded. Evidently, according to what can be learned tonight, every one of them dashed for the main entrance. Bruised and burned men brought to the surface by the main rescue squad declared they had seen many bodies scattered about, but few were able to give an accurate count of what had transpired.

Mine rescue workers from Birmingham have been on the scene since shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon when first word of the disaster was received here. Dolomite is 13 miles from Birmingham.

BEGIN DREARY VIGIL.

At Dolomite the age-old scenes are being enacted. The mouth of the mine, from which smoke and dust drifted drearily into the haze of the late afternoon, was transformed tonight into a blaze of electricity and under each kindly light stood women—some with children at their breasts or tugging at their skirts.

Some of the 125 miners brought out alive from Alabama's contributions to the mine horrors are so badly hurt it is scarcely possible that they can live.

The terrific noise which followed the blast was heard throughout the
